Attorneys Fight for Constitutional Rights Against Tyranny

By Corey Lynn

First, they wanted everyone masked and stocked up on hand sanitizer, then came the toilet paper mania, and in short time states were mandating stay-at-home quarantines and "non-essential" business closures due to COVID-19. What began as a two-week quarantine, turned into weeks and months, and by May they had crashed the entire economy. Everything was blown out of proportion, including the potential death rate, sending a lightning bolt of panic through the country. With each week, more freedoms were stripped away, people's constitutional rights were stomped on, unjustified fines and arrests were being implemented against people who couldn't wear masks, those who attempted to open their business so they could feed their families, or those who wished to pray at church. In a matter of a few short months, the country was turned upside down and governors were abusing their authority.

Eventually, class action suits began in multiple states, citizens organized protests only to have their 1st amendment rights shut down due to "health concerns," by the same governors who promoted and attended George Floyd protests. Hundreds of other class action lawsuits against companies for committing fraud, failure to refund tickets, impact on voters rights, impact on employees, business interruption, impact on legal rights, schools, homeowners and other cases during COVID-19 were also filed. It is a lengthy list, well worth reviewing. In Western Pennsylvania, Giant Eagle supermarket is facing over 30 lawsuits for not allowing shoppers to enter who are not wearing masks due to disabilities. Lawsuits are likely to continue for months to come, as more and more people stand up for their rights.

LAW & ORDER

In April 2020, Attorney General Barr said that the DOJ would support legal action if governors' restrictions go too far, and setup a hotline for people to report violations of civil rights: 866-720-5721, press 1. "We're looking carefully at a number of these rules that are being put into place, and if we think that goes too far, we initially try to jawbone the governors into rolling them back or adjusting them. And if they're not and people bring lawsuits, we file statement of interest and side with the plaintiffs. As lawsuits develop, as specific cases emerge in the states, we'll take a look at them" Barr said.

Aside from the hundreds of class action suits taking place, with or without the support of the DOJ, there are attorneys and state reps fighting for people's constitutional rights, that unfortunately don't seem to make it in the headlines. It's important that people spotlight these cases, especially those setting precedent, support those fighting for justice, and be aware that there are many avenues and resources for standing up for your rights. Submitting to fear and following the herd is not one of them.

Founder of Florida Civil Rights Coalition, trial lawyer Louis Leo IV is representing residents in Palm Beach County Florida who are suing county commissioners for mandating masks that they allege have well-known risks and potential for serious injury and death. Leo believes that people need to be educated on pseudoscience, and has said “it’s coming largely from unethical organizations who profit from sickness and eliminating, not just civil rights, but human rights under the guise of disease prevention. You know what you’re doing is wrong.”

In June, Leo and other attorneys successfully won their case against Miami-Dade County who had arrested and charged over 50 people for enjoying the beach while COVID-19 unconstitutional county emergency orders were in place. All charges were dropped against the defendants.

Know Your Rights & Powerful Tools

When it comes to the constitution and knowing your rights, no one spells it out more clearly than constitutionalist KrisAnne Hall. As a former prosecutor for the State of Florida, author of six books on the Constitution and Bill of Rights, and host of The KrisAnne Hall Show, her knowledge runs deep. She is president of Liberty First University and teaches people about the constitution, while also fighting for people's rights in the courts.

In the KrisAnne Hall Daily Journal Episode 1132, Hall explains the "Rights of the People vs Govt COVID Authority." It is a must watch VIDEO.
Hall has also provided flyers for individuals and businesses pertaining to mandatory masks. A larger scale version can be downloaded here.

Stand Up For Your Rights or Lose Them

Corey's Digs recently published a report titled 'Let's Get Real Before Real Gets Us,' which is an important message, concluding that if we do not stand up for our rights now, we will give up all of our freedoms in the long run. This isn't about a health issue with a death rate of less than 0.05%, it is about a virus that has been politically weaponized to control the masses, strip away everyone's constitutional rights, and keep people in a state of panic and fear.
From day one, the Surgeon General told everyone that masks "are not effective in preventing general public from catching coronavirus." Many have forgotten this.

U.S. Surgeon General
@Surgeon_General
Seriously people- STOP BUYING MASKS!
They are NOT effective in preventing general public from catching #Coronavirus, but if healthcare providers can't get them to care for sick patients, it puts them and our communities at risk!

The CDC cannot even state that they have scientific proof that masks prevent the spread of COVID-19, and instead claim they could prevent spray and "droplets," which is why they state, "masks MAY help." Contrary to their "droplet" claim, Dr. Anthony Fauci said "there's no reason to be walking around with a mask. When you're in the middle of an outbreak, wearing a mask might make people feel a little better and it might even block "a droplet," but it's not providing the perfect protection that people think that it is. And often, there are unintended consequences – people keep fiddling with the mask and they keep touching their face." Even the World Health Organization stated that there is no evidence to show that masks prevent the spread of COVID-19. "In fact, there's some evidence to suggest the opposite in the misuse of wearing a mask properly or fitting it properly," executive director of the WHO health emergencies program said. The WHO later changed their tune when masks became a political agenda as riots ensued. So why are so many people buying into the fear tactics and unconstitutional mandates that governors are making?

WHO stands by recommendation to not wear masks if you are not sick or not caring for someone who is sick

The hypocrisy is so staggering, even the New York Times questioned why public health experts reversed course overnight to advocate for mass gatherings, after decrying the anti-lockdown protests as dangerous gatherings in a pandemic.

While churches still remain under restrictions and in the state of California no one is allowed to sing in church, even with their masks on, Black Lives Matter protests and riots are permitted to continue by the thousands. Bars, restaurants, small businesses, swimming pools and other outdoor activities still remain "non-essential" and a "threat to health" even though the curve has been flattened and the death rate remains lower than 0.05%.

Recently, Senator Dr. Scott Jensen, a family practice doctor of 40 years, came under attack by the political agenda surrounding COVID-19, and is now being investigated by the state's medical practice board for "spreading misinformation about the coronavirus." He spoke out about it on July 5, 2020.

It's time to speak loudly, stand up for your rights, and fight for your constitutional freedoms before they are completely taken away from you.
